The event is a walk along the Dora river banks from Ponte Carpanini to Passerella Mellano in Torino. The group will observe the current landscape and the level of interaction between the Dora river and the citizens, their practices, and uses of these places.

The walk aims to guide people to reflect upon this waterscape, its complex dynamics of “micro” and “macro” transformations which affects the area along the river between the neighborhoods of Aurora and Vanchiglia, as well as the relationship between their changes and the river environment. We will collectively map these spaces and their connections to nearby neighborhoods focusing on the small scale relationships, caesuras and stratifications, and also on the experiences and feelings that arise from the places we walk through.
